Re: Invitation for cervical cancer screening

Dear Ms Van der Test,

We are writing to invite you to take part in the cervical cancer population screening. Cervical cancer is most common among women between 30 and 60 years old. This screening helps us detect cervical cancer or a precancerous abnormality as early as possible. This is important, because the earlier it is found, the better we can treat it.

You decide whether to take part or not. You can take part in two ways:

• With a self-sampling device

You can use the self-sampling device at home at a time that suits you. Using the self-sampling device is simple. We have created instructions to help you. You can request a self-sampling device online through 'My screening' at www.bevolkingsonderzoeknederland.nl/en. You can also call us or send us an email. You can find the contact details at the bottom of this letter.

- With a smear test

You will need to make your own appointment with your GP practice. You can ask to have a female doctor's assistant do the smear test. It is important that you bring this letter with stickers when you go to your appointment.

Taking part in the population screening costs no money. This leaflet tells you more about the population screening.
